

Join us for our winter series of school/community meetings to discuss state and county results of the 2017 New Mexico Middle School and High School New Mexico Youth Risk and Resiliency Surveys (NM-YRRS). Participants will receive data from their county and will learn how to access additional county, state and national data for the health topics most important to them.

These meetings are designed for anyone interested in the health of students in New Mexico, including school district staff, students, health professionals and community members.
